He declared that he had given his evidence without promise of immunity or reward of any kind from the state. Lovers of music will have a chance tomiorrow night to hear the numbers on Professor J. J. McClellan's programme at the Denver music recital. The entertainment is to be repeated at the tabernacle with the addition of some interesting many of the Denver papers. The programme was one which gave Mr. McClellan opportunity to bring out his best work, and it took in a wide range of subjects, including those of the best and most famous composers. This programme will be repeated in its entirety, and some additions will be made by Mr. McClellan,

He will be assisted by the choir, which

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI.

To The Sait Lake Herald:
At a special meeting of the Sait Lake High School Alumni association, called Friday to consider ways and means of raising money to continue the High school for the remainder of the year, a strong sentiment was developed in favor of making a personal canvass among the members with this end in view, and the sum of $300 was pledged in support of the High school. I regret to say that the account given of the meeting by The Herald was misleading in that no sentiments reflecting in any way upon the Mormon church of in favor of the regranization of the Liberal party were expressed or endorsed by the association.

stand, whereon were seated the visiting governors.

In the glowing sunshine the throngs of spectators had been patiently waiting, eager for the reverberation of the starting guns, and as it came booming through the air the almost solid phalanx of people that for hours had been waiting for the parade set up a shout that zwept from one end to the other of the exposition grounds.

Some little delay was occasioned in the formation of the procession, but after the signal to march had been given it was evident that the wait was worth more than it cost, and when the pageant moved off it was conservatively estimated that fully 30,000 men were in line.

Streets Were Packed.

In St. Louis Saturday is observed as a semi-holiday by the majority of the business houses, and the multitudes of employes, mingled with the throngs from the residential sections of the city, were swelled by the masses of visitors, few of whom had left the city, and this vast assemblage, stretching on both sides of Lindell boulevard, formed an avenue through which the cavalcade advanced, led by a squadron of mounted police. Carriages containing the visiting governors and accompanied by their staffs, aggregating 185 mounted men, swept ahead of the procession and stopped at the reviewing stand, where the governors took their seats to await the passage of the parade.

The vehicles of the governors were followed by a line of forty-five carriages containing the World's fair commissioners from states and foreign countries. These distinguished guests also alighted at the reviewing stand.

Music by Marine Band.

Music by Marine Band. At the head of the civic parade rode Colonel Eugene Spencer, grand marshal; Chief of Staff Colonel Edwin Batdorf, Adjutant General Henry T. Mott and a company of twenty-three aides. The United States Marine band furnished strains of inspiring music, quickening the steps of the veterans division, which immediately followed, under the leadership of General John W. Noble, marshal; John B. Gandolfo, chief of staff, and Joseph Folk, adjutant, and aides. Three carriages of Mexican war veterans led the array of old soldiers, the others in the following order: Two carriages of naval veterans, a company of naval reserves commanded by Ensign Gray, 130 United States service men. Six German vereins, gay with bright colors, carrying hundreds of waving banners, and with uniforms the colors of which included every shade that could lend beauty to the spectacle closed the second division. Unique Divison.

The next division was perhaps the most unique of any in the parade. It was formed by the men from Indian Territory and Oklahoma. The 'Frisco system cowboy band, clad in characteristic costume, led the division, and behind them came fifty cowboys, forty Indians and 300 additional representatives of the two territories. Indians and 300 additional representatives of the two territories. As they rode along the cowboys and Indians gave exhibitions of daring horsemanship which rivaled anything seen in any circus. The delight of the spectators was extreme, and the passage of the division was a continuous ovation. Using an Indian mound as an impromptu rostrum, Governor Wells of Utah promised that from the building which would represent that state and which would be erected upon that site would flow true warm western hospitality during the exposition. Other speeches were made by Apostle John Henry Smith of the Mormon church and United States Senator Reed Smoot. President Joseph H. Smith of the Mormon church then pronounced a dedicatory benediction, and Utah's ceremony concluded by the singing of "America."

Mr. Lindsay spoke very briefly, and then introduced Governor A. M. Dockery of Missouri, who extended the address of welcome to the governors of the states.

The fourth division was made up by the various mercantile associations of St. Louis, and hundreds of her most prominent and influential business men marched in the ranks. Every one of the commercial exchanges was strongly represented, 600 men being in line. Six gorgeous tally-hos, containing members of the stock exchange, were a distinctive feature.

The fifth division was made up of 1,700 men and 200 cadets from the various educational institutions of St. Louis. Washington university, whose home is now the administration building of the exposition, was given the right of the line. Then came rank

I have suffered for some time from an excess of uric acid in the blood; and since the middle of last year, from a severe attack of Eczema, chiefly on the scalp, face, ears and neck and on one limb. I was for several months under professional suffering from similar complaints, and, treatment, but the remedles prescribed were of no avail and I was gradually becoming worse, my face was dreadfully disfigured and I lost nearly all my hair. At last, my wife prevailed upon me to try the Cuticura Remedies and I gave them a thorough trial with the most satisfactory results. The disease soon began to disappear and my hair commenced to grow again. A fresh growth of hair is covering my head, and my limb (although not yet quite cured) is gradually improving.
